

I have enjoyed XM Radio for over a year now. It is innovative, fresh, and offers content that I can't get anywhere else. I look forward to new services coming via XM - and there is no way that I want other groups somehow limiting what XM can offer.

FCC - please do not let groups, such as the NAB, with self-serving interests limit the services that consumers such as myself want to receive in our own way - via XM Radio. Local services such as traffic and weather are a welcome addition to XM and I look forward to even more of these types of services from XM in the future. This is especially true as I am paying to subscribe to these services - and the NAB nor any other similar group should be able to limit what I choose to receive.

I respectfully urge all the reasonable people at the FCC to reject the NAB's petition 04-160. Make the members of the NAB compete on the same basis without any artificial limitations being placed upon their perceived competitors. XM is an amazing advance in the broadcast arena - the NAB and its members should stop wasting time and energy on this and spend those resources competing.
